PLOCAN Glider School aims to focus into ocean glider technologies and their wide range of monitoring applications. Students and professionals from marine and maritime field interested to learn on this specific and emerging autonomous ocean vehicle technology are truly welcome to join in.

PLOCAN Glider School is an initiative that provides a state-of-the-art overview and the operational basis approach to this technology through theoretical and practical teaching sessions in both wet-lab and open waters of Gran Canaria. Leading corporate partners and international research institutions closely cooperate with the PLOCAN Glider School by teaching some of the didactical program contents.
